

Explore

Search for an object

Sun,
Moon,
Planets

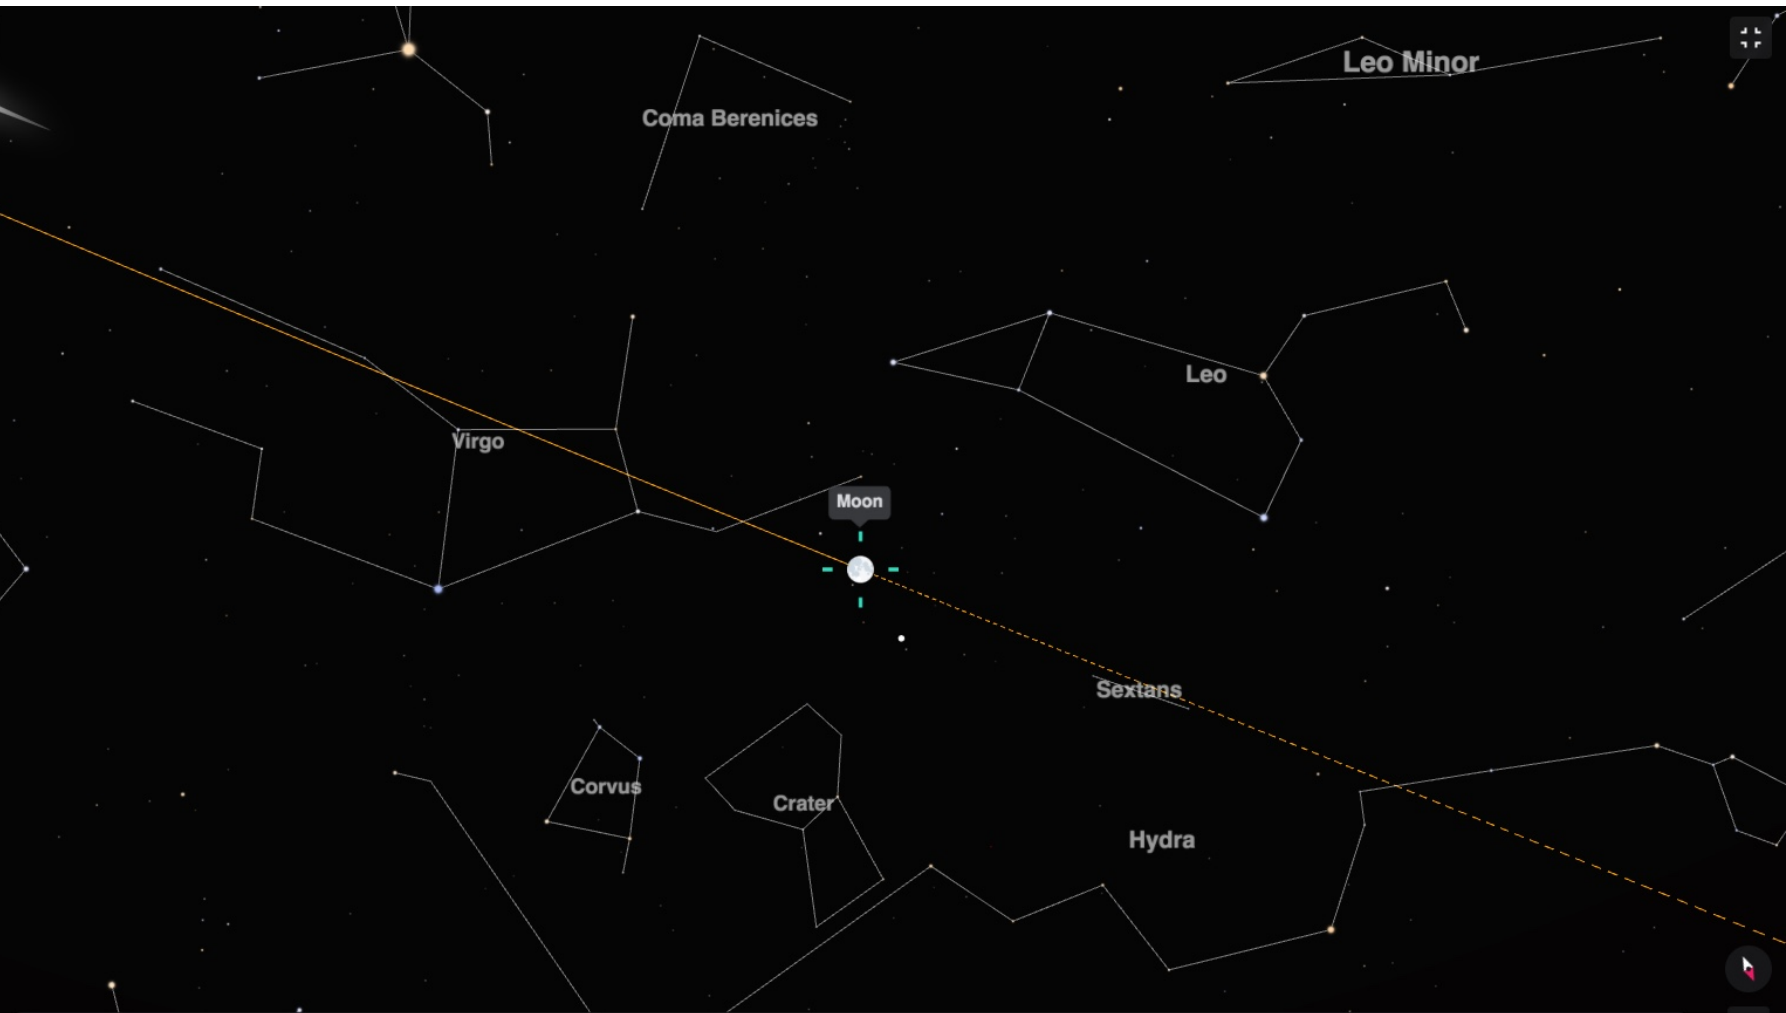

Moon

Rise 7:03 pm
Best 7:36 pm
Set 7:29 am
Altitude 54.03°
Direction 220.28° (SW)
Apparent magnitude -12.44
Adjusted magnitude -12.38
Visibility Excellent

The Moon
Our Satellite

LIVE 3/4/2026 2:51:13

March 04, 2026: Sidereal Moon Location at Noon = ♍ 05°16'

Moon		What am I containing?	Instinctive emotions	Unconscious, and brought to light by the sun;	The feminine protective instincts, women, and the mother:
				Instincts; Instinctive emotions ; Instinctive response to the environment; Intuition;	Home environment; Sense of belonging; Ability to reach the public;
				Strong emotional attachments; Emotional expressions ; Emotional response to the environment;	Natural habits ; Eating patterns and preferences;
				Fluctuations; Reactions ;	Attitudes to the past; Changing moods ;
				Emotional development as a child; Needs for security;	Changing fortunes based on the cycles of the moon;
				Imagination;
				Natural house is the 4th house of home, family, and parents.
				Home and family issues:
		The hunt	Twin sister of Apollo, the goddess Diana	Psychological foundations ; Childhood conditioning; The ‘background’ parent;	Home-life, Family, Physical home, Roots, Childhood and Parents
				One’s sense of belonging; How one is in private;

Later years of life.

Virgin, the goddess Astraea. Sent by her father, Zeus, to live among the mortals with the instruction to teach the mortals the laws of nature.

The ‘Golden Age’ followed where all went well and when peace reined. Harvests were in abundance.

Eventually, mankind fell into increasingly evil ways and Astraea returned to her rightful place among the gods - in disgust.

Astræa, a daughter of Asræus, king of Arcadia, or accoding to others, of Titan, Saturn’s brother, by Aurora. Some make her dughter of Jupiter and Themis, and others consider her to be the same as Rhea, wife of Saturn.

♍ Astræa is called ‘Justice’ and of this virtue (Justice) Astræa is the goddess. Astræ (Justice) lived upon the earth during the Golden Age, which is often called the Age of Astræa (Justice). But, the wickedness and impiety of mankind drove her to heaven in the brazen and bronze ages.

“In the Stygian shadow, all that precious metal, The root of evil. They found the guilt of iron, and gold, more guilty still. And War came forth that uses both to fight with; bloody hands Brandished the clashing weapons. Men lived on plunder, Guest was not safe from host, nor brother from brother, A man would kill his wife, a wife her husband, Stepmothers, dire and dreadful, sitrred their brews With poisonous aconite, and sons would hustle Fathers to death, and Piety lay vanquished, And the maiden Justice, last of all immortals, Fled from the bloody earth.” Ovid’s Metamorphoses, Book One, Lines 127-162.

Astræa was placed among the constellations under the name of Virgo. Astræa is represented as a virgin, with a stern but majestic countenance, holding a pair of scales in one hand and a sword in the other.

Service;	Shy; Modest;	Fussy; Self-conscious;
	Cautious; Discriminating;
Critical;	Sensible;	Worrier; Critical; Fastidious; Finicky; Cynical;
Analytical;	Diligent; Reliable; Practical;	Over-conforming
Dutiful;	Detail-oriented; Meticulous; Methodical; Analytical; Organized; Efficient; Precise;	Perfectionist; Hyper-critical

Moon through Virgo:

Prudish: Adjective. 1. Excessively proper or modest in speech, conduct, dress, etc. 2. Characteristic of a prude. [PRUDE + ISH].

Shyness; Over-anxiousness; Prudishness;

Tendency of the mind to govern the heart;

Prude: Noun. 1. A person who is excessively proper or modest in speech, conduct, dress, etc. [< F prude a prude (n.), prudish (adj.), short for prudefemme, OF prodefeme worthy or respectable woman. See PROUD, FEME]

Concern for order and correctness makes it difficult to 'let go' of a need to control the results;

Driven by a need to be useful;

The Dawn of Humankind

ASTRAEA

The daughter of Jupiter and Themis (the Law), and sister of Modesty, Astraea spreads feelings of virtue and justice among the people. She was active particularly during the Golden Age, but when evil and violence plagued the world in the Iron Age, she fled to the heavens and became a constellation.

□ Astraea materializes in the clouds to a group of shocked peasants. She appears with a lion and with the sword and the scales, her attributes. The artist took inspiration from the second eclogue of Virgil's Bucolics, in which the poet recounts the birth of a new Golden Age ushered in by the return to Earth of Astraea, the goddess of justice. The painting seems to hint at other meanings, for it has been interpreted either as a glorification of the House of Medici or a celebration of peace after the end of the devastating Thirty Years' War.

THE RETURN OF ASTRAEA

Salvator Rosa

c. 1640

490 | Kunsthistorisches Museum, Vienna

(This tree is growing towards justice and light)
(The receptive offspring of the law)
(A receptive sibling of being modest in one's actions)

(Wise and noble people see a tree that bends because it is not too firm, and it bends with the wind - towards justice and peace)

(Ancient idiots believe this justice is bent)
(Frat boy: 'See! That means we bend justice to us!')

(measured sword)

(Scales of justice)

(lion as her footstool)